PRODUCTS AND SERVICES

CourtsOnline

Our flagship application – CourtsOnline – is a proprietary technology that provides online access, searching, and retrieval of court case records. CourtsOnline provides online searching for all cases associated with a specific person or business in one or more courts. In addition, it allows you to search for a particular case number in a specific court. Intrievex distributes a user interface application via its website for its online access clients. This application makes searching for a court case a very easy and efficient process that would otherwise be a slow, difficult, and tedious experience when done in person at the courthouse. Access is available 24 hours a day, 365 days a year, making court records research possible when needed, rather than just during business hours.

Daily Data Feeds

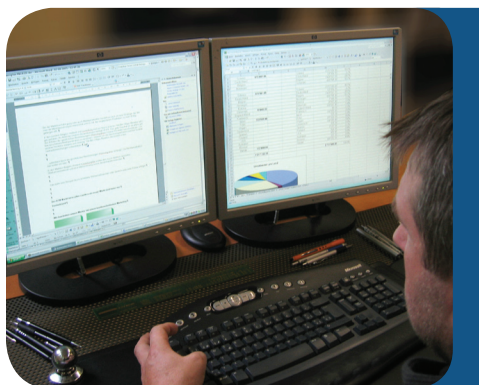

We provide daily data feeds for most industries that are dependent on data sources, such as legal, title, real estate, and medical. One of our most active sectors is the title industry where real estate title plants produce information to support reports for production operations in title companies. Our daily data feeds service provides customers with data by case type and by court, filed for a specific day or any time period. Feeds can be provided in virtually any format or data type that is compatible with a client's upload utility. This allows you to keep your databases up-to-date with the constantly changing data in your industry.

Data Records Backfill

Our data records backfill service is the sister service to our daily data feeds. Our software is highly-flexible and capable of working in almost any industry with any type of data set. As we prepare to get you up and running on daily data feeds, we also look historically to sweep the data and backfill your databases as far back as you need. You pick the date range and data set, and we do the work. These one-time bulk data backfills are a great way to make your information current and more robust.

Web Docket Viewer

The Web Docket Viewer is integrated into your title plant software. You can view a court case record docket right in the interface, giving you a seamless integration of data and software, all in one system.

WHAT THEY ARE SAYING

"I use CourtsOnline for a variety of things including checking the status of pending orders, obtaining copies of missing pleadings, and obtaining background information and documents for new matters. This is especially helpful when preparing a new business report when the attorney provides you very little information about the case. For all of these tasks, CourtsOnline provides a very useful and convenient service."

"CourtsOnline is intuitive and easy to use. Downloading case records and documents is a breeze, all at a very reasonable cost."

"We have been using the services of CourtsOnline for the past several years... I would not hesitate to recommend the CourtsOnline system to others at any time. We have been highly satisfied since the induction of the system into our title operation and rely on the information it provides for us daily."
